

PROF. HIRAM CORSON DEAD.

ITHACA, N. Y., June 15.—Prof. Hiram Corson, prominent for many years as an educator and author, and from 1870 to 1903 Professor of English Literature at Cornell, died at his home here this afternoon at the age of 82 years. Since 1903 he had been a Professor Emeritus at Cornell.

Prof. Corson was born in Philadelphia. From 1849 to 1856 he was connected with the library of the Smithsonian Institution, lectured on English literature in Philadelphia from 1859 to 1865, and from then until 1870 was a professor at Girard and St. John's Colleges. He had the degrees of A. M., LL. D., and Litt. D.

Prof. Corson was well known in the world of letters for his writings. He published in 1863 "Chaucer's Legend of Goode Women" with introduction and notes, and from that time on offered many works of great value. Some of his later publications include: "The Aims of Literary Study," "The Voice and Spiritual Education," "Selections from Chaucer's Canterbury Tales," with introduction, notes, and glossary, and "An Introduction to the Prose and Poetical Works of John Milton."

Theophilus A. Brouwer.

Theophilus A. Brouwer, Treasurer Emeritus of the Collegiate Reformed Church of this city, died at his home, 320 St. Nicholas Avenue, yesterday afternoon, in the eighty-fifth year of his age. Mr. Brouwer was born in this city Feb. 28, 1827, and was of Dutch-Huguenot stock, the son of Jacob Brouwer and Jane Maria (De Riemer) Brouwer. He was prominently identified with the work of religious and charitable societies. In early manhood he became a manager, and afterward President, of the New York Bible Society, and was active in the New York Sunday School Union. Mr. Brouwer had served as President of the Society for Promoting the Gospel Among Seamen in the Port of New York, and also upon the Board of Managers of the National Temperance Society and of the American Tract Society. He was a Director of the North River Insurance Company and a member of the St. Nicholas and Holland Societies.

The New York Times

Published: June 16, 1911

Copyright © The New York Times